

WHAT YOU WILL NEED:

- Image in multiples - at least 3 (use wrapping paper, repeat print outs or copies/tracings)
- Sticky foam pads/cut-up cardboard squares
- Scissors or craft knife
- Cardboard background piece and thin card
- Glue or double sided tape

WHAT TO DO:

1. Stick your first main image onto the background card.
2. Take your second image and stick this onto the thin card and then cut it out.
3. Stick foam pads or card squares onto the back of the cut out image. Space them out around the surface so they will act as supports.
4. Stick this second image on top of the first image so it stands out from the surface to give a 3D relief effect.
5. Take your third image and choose some features that could stand out further (eg a beak or nose, a protruding belly, a hat or bag or petals on a flower).
6. Stick the image onto some thin card and cut these features out.
7. Stick foam pads/card squares onto the back of these pieces and then stick them directly on top of the second layer.
8. Keep layering up to create as much 3D relief as you wish.

TIPS AND EXTRA INFO.:

- TIP: stack card squares on top of each other to vary the height of your layers.
- IDEA: use multiple images on one background to create your own scene.
- IDEA: if you don't have multiple images or a printer create a picture with different layers using old cards and magazine/newspaper pictures or draw your own images to layer.
